THE CENTER FOR GREEN SCHOOLS AT USGBC PRESENTS

GREEN APPLE DAY OF SERVICE

In 2014, thousands of Green Apple Day of Service projects happened all over the world, with almost 130 of them taking place right here in the Delaware Valley. This year, Green Apple Day of Service will be celebrated on Saturday, September 26, 2015, but projects can be scheduled anytime this fall. This day of service gives parents, teachers, students, companies, and others the opportunity to transform all schools into healthy, safe and productive environments through service projects.

Green Apple Day of Service (championed locally by us, the Delaware Valley Green Building Council) is a great way to build support and momentum for green initiatives in local schools. Every year it draws an unprecedented level of engagement and enthusiasm from partners in K-12 schools and higher education, the nonprofit and private sectors, and even our sports teams!

We look forward to working with schools across the region and supporting their commitment to make all schools into healthy, safe, and productive spaces to learn. Visit mygreenapple.org for project ideas and to register your 2015 project! Contact Lizzy Friesen, DVGBC Education and Programs Coordinator, at EFriesen@dvgbc.org with questions about planning your local Green Apple Day of Service.

In 2014, the Green Apple Day of Service efforts in the Delaware Valley reached far and wide, from YouthBuild USA students cleaning solar panels on a rooftop with a stunning skyline view, to fifth graders caring for young shade trees in a suburban park.

Visit dvgbc.org/greenschools/GADOS for a full list of the 2014 projects completed in our region.